DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the amendment filed 9/27/07. Currently, claims 1-9 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over George et al. (USPub. No. 2004/0151553), in view of Mast et al. (USP 7,147,414).

GEORGE ET AL. teaches a spot drilling tool having a rotational axis, chisel edge (41) with diametrically opposite ends, a pair of linear cutting edges (36), a planar first flute surface (33) and a conical land surface (45) ('553, figures 2, 3, 3a). GEORGE ET AL. also teaches said chisel edge (41) and cutting edges (36) being centered on said rotational axis and each said land surface (45) radially approaches said axis of rotation in a direction opposite said cutting direction (35) ('553, figure 3a). Furthermore, GEORGE ET AL. teaches said cutting edges (36) extending from each end of the chisel edge (41) and being inclined at an angle relative to the rotational axis ('553, figure 4). GEORGE ET AL. also teaches a second planar surface (44). Regarding claims 2, 3, 7 and 8, GEORGE ET AL. teaches angle gamma being within the range of between 10 degrees and 25 degrees, alternatively 25 degrees to 45 degrees or about 15 degrees, therefore the cutting edges define an included angle of approximately 60 degrees (i.e. less than 80 degrees) when gamma is 45 degrees (see figure below).

However, GEORGE ET AL. fails to teach the cutting portion of the tool being an insert that is received within a socket.

Mast teaches a spot drilling insert and a drill holder having an insert receiving socket (30) that is complementary to the socket-mating portion of the insert ('414, figures 1 and 2).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to make GEORGE ET AL.'s cutting portion a separate insert, as taught by Mast for the purpose of having the capability for quick changing of the insert upon wear of the cutting surfaces instead of the entire tool, and allows for one tool to be used for a variety of different boring applications by simply changing the insert and not the entire drill assembly ('414, col. 1, lines 34-38).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 9 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-9 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
